Hohenstein to host ECPC 2020 Conference on protective clothing

BÖNNIGHEIM, GERMANY (Oct. 22, 2019) – The Ninth European Conference on Protective Clothing (ECPC) will be hosted in Stuttgart, Germany from May 18-20, 2020 by testing service provider and research partner Hohenstein.

The ECPC conference is a platform to exchange and discuss research and project development for personal protective equipment (PPE). It aims to foster cooperation and networking between science and industry.

Hohenstein invites researchers, designers, manufacturers and other health and safety experts to take a joint, scientific look at the PPE market. Subjects include intelligent systems, new technologies, materials and test methods, requirements and standardization, and the ergonomics and compatibility of PPE systems.

Call for Abstracts

ECPC offers the opportunity to present developments to the international audience in an abstract. The submission deadline is Jan. 15, 2020.
